Where the LiftOffr Score reads

47.1 RE-ACCUMULATION

9 Nov 2026 · nine public on-chain and price components, weights published at liftoffr.com/score

| | |
|---|---|
| 85–100 | Exit zone. Every cycle top since 2013 printed here. |
| 70–85 | Warning. Has preceded exit-zone readings, not every time. |
| 50–70 | Mid-cycle. Historically the least informative band. |
| 30–50 | Re-accumulation. Has resolved upward more often than not at 180 days. Does not establish that a bottom has passed. |
| 15–30 | Accumulation. Among the lower readings in a cycle. |
| <15 | Deep accumulation. The lowest band the Score produces. |

Three questions to answer in writing

1. What would make me review my plan, other than price? A Score band change, a new low, a date, or a change in my own situation.
2. How long could this money sit untouched? Past cycles took years to recover their highs. Money you might need sooner is a different decision.
3. What will I do if this time is different? Write the rule now, while nothing is forcing you to.

> What this map can't tell you. Two to three measured cycles is a tiny sample. Timings have varied and may not repeat; the halving's role is debated. The Score is computed over public historical data (a backtest), not a record of trades. Nothing here predicts a price or a date.
